Montana Idaho and Oregon by the Pacific Railroad

[illegible] Northern Pacific Railroad [illegible] threatened [illegible] by the feasible plans of the [illegible] for [illegible] Montana and Idaho and thence into Oregon Washington Territory and Puget's Sound. The [illegible] the Salt Lake [illegible] the navigable waters of the Columbia [illegible] reaching Portland by steam [illegible] out in the [illegible] the Pacific Railroad managers have [illegible] the opportunities in this direction. Now they have perfect plans for branches that will take in all the Northwest [illegible] territories and [illegible] the construction of the [illegible] east and west Northern Pacific Road.

[illegible] of the proposed branch routes [illegible] from the main line near Fort Bridger about 125 miles north [illegible] of Salt Lake [illegible] by Hodge's Pass about fifty miles to the Bear River Valley, here it divides, one route going nearly due west for Idaho to the Snake River branch of the Columbia and the other due north to Montana, whose central settlements are reached in 250 miles from the original starting point. Leaving this route for Montana alone two other plans for reaching Idaho and Oregon develop in their west, one going due north from the mouth of Weber canon in Salt Lake Valley through the thriving Mormon settlements in Northern Utah and the other on the supposition that the main road is to be laid around the northern side of Salt Lake and here is probably the chief reason why the Pacific [illegible] the [illegible] trunk track as its most northerly [illegible] of Salt Lake and striking [illegible] to Snake River. The latter [illegible] would require less new or branch road, the whole distance from the trunk road at Salt Lake to Portland being but 640 miles or about the same indeed, as to San Francisco by the main road. But the first route would reduce the entire distance from the Missouri River to Portland 100 miles—1,670 against 1,770 via the Salt Lake branch, but requires [illegible] more than that distance of extra [illegible] to be built. Half of this however [illegible] the Montana [illegible]

[illegible] routes from Idaho and Oregon [illegible] at Salmon Falls on the Snake river in the south [illegible] part of Idaho here comes in [illegible] navigation on the Snake River [illegible] Ferry which could be [illegible] then 175 miles more of railroad across the Blue Mountains and the [illegible] Valley and Umatilla on the Columbia River is reached and hence 100 miles to Portland, is a present first class line of steamboat and railroad service already in operation. By the first [illegible] the earliest branch about 400 miles of [illegible] of steamboat would open Portland to the benefits of the continental railway [illegible] latest departing branch from the northern end of Salt Lake only 285 miles of new road would have to be built to make available the same beneficence. From Portland 130 miles more of road due north through Washington Territory reaches Puget's Sound and opens up the grand [illegible] region and the finest inland waters in North America

The report of General Dodge, the Chief Engineer of the Pacific Railroad, in regard to these branches, is singularly inexact and [illegible] in details, but it serves to bring out the main fact that, in this way the whole settled country of our extreme Northwest can be brought into quick and cheap steam communication with the rest of the nation much sooner and at much less cost than by the proposed independent Northern Pacific Road. These branches can be easily opened by 1870 or 71 at least and they will involve but about 800 miles of new road in all whereas we could not hope for the construction of the entire Northern road for less than ten years to come, except under the stimulus of a rich Government grant and at the cost of the construction of 1,600 to 1,800 miles of road. It is directly to the interest of the main Pacific Railroad to have these proposed branches built; they will be important feeders to its main line, and the men who have made millions of money by the construction of the latter can wisely invest a large share of their profits in these extensions that will secure and monopolize in their hands the trade and travel of the whole western half of the nation. Thus they will give a value to their stock and their lands that could come to them so soon and so richly in no other way. Under these circumstances, it ought not to need any great amount of Government aid to secure their early construction; the instincts of self interest should drive the Central Pacific Railroad to engage at once upon the work.

The state of things as to the feasibility of opening up our northern Territories [illegible] railway communication has not been generally [illegible] either by the local or general [illegible] The Oregonians were the first to discover it and have moved to urge its improvement. It is their first and best outlook to the East and when realized it will put them on an equal footing with San Francisco and California as concerns the Eastern markets. It puts too an almost fearful power in the hands of the Pacific Railway. That corporation thus has even doubly gigantic opportunities [illegible] and possessions in its grasp. It needs already to be watched as well as trusted. But its work is scarcely half done when its opens up its main line across the continent. The nation cannot help but [illegible] and fulfil the other lines [illegible] for its passage [illegible] every [illegible] with [illegible] But with all [illegible] its responsibility the nation must [illegible] with courage and integrity to guard the vast public interests that will be involved in the [illegible] of this continental [illegible] of railway communication. A new trial [illegible] institutions to the purity and strength of our government is involved in the development of this great Pacific Railway and its [illegible] associations of capital and influence. Already the struggle is commenced, but with even hand and firm faith alike [illegible] and control the nation must [illegible] to its responsibilities. The roads must be built and they must not rule the government and they will not. But now is the time when [illegible] to begin to guard. [illegible]

[illegible] BETS ON GRANT. When the hot[illegible] excitement which followed [illegible] Seymour's nomination was at its height in New York, John Morrissey surprised a Democratic friend by saying in his quiet nonchalant way [illegible] All this is very nice, but there isn't a ghost of a chance for Seymour against Grant. The friend ridiculed John's judgment of the political situation, when John offered to back it up with a bet of [illegible] dollars to [illegible] thousand that Grant would be the next President. This was a [illegible] the [illegible] Seymourite [illegible] Morrissey [illegible] $100,000 [illegible] willing to [illegible] the judgment of the Democratic [illegible] Congress

Competition with the Pacific Railroad

(From the Chicago Tribune Aug 18.)

It is very generally considered a foregone conclusion in this country that what with the early completion of the main line of the Pacific Railroad and the newly-opened regular communication by steam between San Francisco, Japan and China something akin to a monopoly of the transportation traffic if not of the trade in general with the empires of Western Asia will soon be enjoyed by our [illegible] community. But it appears that the business men of Great Britain whose yearly trade with China represents a value of eighty millions of dollars are not disposed to adopt a policy of passive resignation in the face of [illegible] threatened loss of a portion if not the whole of that valuable commerce. On the contrary it has of late become certain that with their accustomed energy and enterprise they will make strenuous efforts to prevent the Pacific Railroad from becoming the great international highway between Western Asia and Europe. Projects have been entertained for some time in England, as well as in British India for developing in Asia a system of steam communication by land and by water that shall not only supersede the present exclusive transportation by sea between the British dominions and the coast of China and greatly reduce the time of transit, but also render the British carriers and traders secure from American competition. These schemes have been duly considered by various British Boards of Trade, and steps have already been taken to carry them out.

It is well known that a vast system of railroads is rapidly developing under British auspices in the East Indies. Roads already traverse the peninsula in every direction which will be extended in the course of a few years into a regular network, connecting not only the principal seaports on the east and west coasts, but all the important inland cities with each other. It will consist of four main trunk lines with branch roads from each. One of the former is being constructed from Bombay up the coast into the valley of the Indus. It is already completed from Bombay to within a short distance of the Gulf of Cutch, a distance of 370 miles, and its continuation from the mouth of the Indus is completed for a distance of over a hundred miles up that river. Another link of the same chain commencing at Moltoon and running up the Indus into the Punjab, is finished for six hundred miles. A second trunk line is that running from Bombay to Madras, three hundred and twenty miles of which or about one third of the distance between the two cities, are already in operation. A third main line, known as the Great Peninsula Road runs to the northeast from Bombay and is meant to strike the valley of the Ganges, at the confluence of that river with the Jumna, where stands the famous city of Allahabad. It is already operated for three hundred and seventy from Bombay and from Allahabad to Jubalpore, a distance of two hundred and thirty miles. The gap intervening between the two terminal links will be filled in less than two years. The fourth trunk line extends from Calcutta up the Ganges to Allahabad, and far beyond, to Delhi a distance of over a thousand miles, the whole of which has been operated for some time. It will eventually be extended so as to connect with the road up the Indus. By means of this line, and the Great Peninsula Dombay and Calcutta will be connected by rail in 1870

Now the scheme for opening a new highway to China that will be controlled by British influences and counterbalance the effect of the construction of the Pacific railroad, is to extend the East India railroad system from Calcutta in a north-eastern direction to the valley of the Upper Irrawaddy in the Burmese territory and thence to and beyond the western frontier of China to the Upper Yang tze Kiang. From Calcutta a road is running to the river Brammapootra. From the upper valley of this river to that of the upper Irrawaddy it is only a few hundred miles and the distance from the Upper Irrawaddy to the Yang-tze Kiang—the Chinese Mississippi—is no greater. This magnificent stream navigable for nearly its whole length of three thousand miles, would afford a ready channel of trade from Western China to the Pacific. A decisive step toward the extension of the Anglo Indian railroad system through Burmah has just been definitely resolved upon according to the latest intelligence from Calcutta. It is the construction of a railroad along the river Irrawaddy up to the city of Prome starting from the city of Rangoon in the delta of that river about twenty five miles from the Indian Ocean. It is expected to be run to a point within two hundred miles of the Chinese frontier. That a link connecting this new road with that from Calcutta to the Brammapootra will be simultaneously constructed may be considered certain.

But for the fact that no vessels exceeding twelve hundred tons burden can ascend to Rangoon that point would no doubt become a great outlet for the proposed new commercial highway through China.

Whether the great project in question is to be fully realized will depend mainly on the disposition of the Chinese Government to open the interior of its dominions for free commercial intercourse. The mission of Mr Burlingame seems to indicate an inclination on its part to adopt a more liberal policy. Should this be true the carrying out of the proposed railroad system will be but a question of time. Whenever opened, this great Asiatic highway besides becoming the channel of a local trade of immeasurable proportions in [illegible] as well as in the [illegible] of China will doubtless [illegible] formidable [illegible] of the Atlantic [illegible] American Pacific route. If the Suez Canal project should prove [illegible] success merchandise could be carried from all parts of Northern and Southern Europe all the way by water to Bombay and thence by rail and water to China without breaking bulk more than twice. In this respect the Asiatic route would offer the same advantages as the American. But as to the time of transit the former would be able to offer better inducements both to travelers and goods than the latter. For allowing a month for the transit by steam to Bombay [illegible] an estimate which would certainly be found rather too high than too low for most European ports and fifteen days for the trip by rail from that port to the Yang tze Kiang and then only that river to the Pacific coast there would be a great difference of time in favor of the Asiatic route as the transit by the Pacific Railroad when finished, from Europe to China will require between fifty and fifty six days. Moreover passengers and goods destined for the interior of China would save still more time by the former route. But even in case the Suez Canal should not fulfill the confident expectations of its originators the fact that railroads are now under way through Europe and Asiatic Turkey that will in the [illegible] of a few years furnish an unbroken connection between the north of the river Euphrates at the north end of the Persian Gulf and the whole of the European Continent makes it still more certain that the Asiatic route will in point of time have decided advantages over the American. For as soon as [illegible] completed the transit [illegible] will be shortened by one half

The Cleveland Herald says the Democratic newspapers and orators are put to it to maintain an appearance of loyalty and yet use such language towards the rebels as shall not wound rebel feelings. The last effort in this direction was by Mr Tilden, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New York who in a speech at [illegible] he [illegible] spoke of the works of the rebellion as [illegible] during the last eight years. Political Brevities

General J B Sweitzer, who was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Pittsburg district two years ago in opposition to Hon J K Moorhead, has declared his intention to support Grant

Gen Charles Devens, of Worcester, who was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Massachusetts against John A Andrew in 1862, has announced his intention to support Grant and Colfax in this contest

The Democrats who are perpetually talking about the wrongs and distresses of the South are like the boy who killed his old father and mother, and when about to be sentenced claimed the sympathy of the Court on account of being an orphan

The Conservative Democrats of Baltimore have met in Convention and stricken the word Conservative from their title. The reason is found in the fact that all the Swann Conservatives had already left them and gone over to Grant and Colfax

The Democratic papers of Connecticut are raving over a new "Radical outrage," viz the circulation of the Irish Republic among the Irish voters of the State. What business has anybody to circulate any but Democratic papers among the Irishmen? What business have Irishmen to read other papers?

The New York Herald has flopped again. The change in its political tone was produced by the pressure of the Tammanyites, who, in three weeks, by personal exertion, reduced the circulation in New York City from 30,000 to 3,000. Every Democrat proscribed it, and Bennett was absolutely forced to turn half way back

After the death of Halpine, (Miles O'Reilly), of the New York Citizen, that paper said "Irishmen! remember that when the noblest representative of your race (Halpine) lay dead in the house of his stricken family, Horace Greeley strove to secure the emoluments of the vacant office which he had held to his widow and orphan children. Remember that every Republican journal in this city endorsed the proposal, and that the only sheet which opposed it was the World."

Wade Hampton [illegible] the manner of his submission, in the following: I yield to none in devotion to that 'lost cause' for which we fought. Never shall I admit that the cause itself failed, and that the principles which gave it life were [illegible]. Never shall I brand the men who [illegible] as 'rebels' or traitors.' Never shall I [illegible] seek safety or base promotion by a [illegible] of it."

It may be a little premature to [illegible] on this candidate's cabinet if elected, but we are confident that we can do Seymour's [illegible] in the following selection: Secretary of State, Thos. H. Hendricks, of Indiana; Secretary of the Treasury, August Belmont, of Frankfort-on-the-Main; Secretary of War, —— Forrest, of Fort Pillow; Secretary of the Navy, Admiral Semmes, of the Confederate States; Secretary of the Interior, Geo H Pendleton, of Ohio; Postmaster G[illegible], Brick Pomeroy, of New York and Wisconsin; Attorney General, H. H. Haight, of California.

A Memphis correspondent writes to the N. Y. Times: "There are indications of trouble in Tennessee and throughout the South at the Presidential election this fall. The old Confederate element has got itself so wrought up by the revolutionary language of the Democratic leaders, that it actually thinks there is a prospect of again obtaining control of the South, and attaining the objects of the great rebellion. It behooves the Union people of the country to understand this state of things thoroughly, and to make no mistake as to the political prospects of the country. Only by the election of Grant will we have peace."

Ozone, discovered by Schonbein in 1840, has lately been the subject of numerous researches. It exercises a powerful [illegible] upon organic substances and this property has recently called it into notice again. It has been shown by Dr Schurr, of Berne, that Ozone, as well as substances impregnated with it, will kill animalcules with [illegible] and rapidity, and as [illegible] to establish the theory that most epidemics, and cholera among the number, are owing to the presence of microzoaria or very minute insects great hopes are entertained of its being possible to use ozone in hospitals as a disinfectant and perhaps to extend its use still further. Ozone however being a modification of oxygen exercises an irritating on the respiratory organs, a drawback which must necessarily reduce its application to sanitary purposes within narrow limits. Ozone is produced by decomposing water by means of a galvanic battery the electrodes or poles, being made of non-oxidizable metals such as gold and platinum in pairs. The gas collected at the platinum pole is ozone, which possesses a peculiar odor or smell of electricity

The Spirit of Modern Politics

In General Grant's letter of acceptance he says:

> In times like the present it is impossible, or at least, eminently improper, to lay down a policy to be adhered to, right or wrong, through an administration of four years. New political issues not foreseen are constantly arising; the views of the people on old ones are constantly changing, and a purely administrative officer should always be left free to execute the will of the people, which will I have always respected and always will."

This statement has been satirized as exhibiting a want of statesmanship and a willingness to float with popular currents without a policy or purpose. But in reality it expresses the fundamental proof of modern politics. The principle of avoiding a policy to be adhered to, right or wrong, is the characteristic feature of modern statesmanship. The whole system of politics, as well as of philosophy, was formed on arbitrary rules, and an effort was made to make everything bend to them. Nothing could move the ruler out of the path he had chosen. The increase of popular intelligence or the changing conditions of the times made no difference with those in power. Revolutions came, because rulers persisted in having "a fixed policy," and in turning a deaf ear to the demands of the people. But the modern statesman, if he is worthy of the name, has no dogma to be maintained regardless of new developments or the inevitable progress, or mutations, of all human affairs. Buckle says of England's greatest political philosopher, Burke: "He lays it down that political principles are, at best, but the product of human reason; while political practice has to do with human nature and human passions, of which reason forms but a part; and that on this account the proper business of a statesman is to continue the means by which certain ends may be effected, leaving it to the general voice of the country to determine what these ends shall be, and shaping his own conduct, not according to his own principles, but according to the wishes of the people for whom he legislates, and whom he is bound to obey."

Grant's letter of acceptance is precisely in this spirit. And these principles may be illustrated in the clearest possible manner by an event in our own history.

President Buchanan was one of those who had "a policy." His mind was thoroughly imbued with the dogmas of his party. He could not see beyond them, or get one inch out of the groove in which he had been accustomed to run. He could find no power in the Constitution to defend the country against seceders and rebels; he had persuaded himself that no such power was lodged there, and it was impossible to convince him to the contrary. If the Government could not be administered according to the dogmas of his party, why then the Government must go down. He adhered to his "fixed policy," and the country went to pieces in his hands.

When Andrew Johnson became President he also conceived the idea of having "a policy." He undertook the task of reconstruction on his own authority and responsibility, and would neither deviate in the smallest degree from his notions, or allow Congress or the people to have anything to do with the work. The natural result was that he plunged reconstruction into chaos, from which condition it has not yet been wholly recovered. The consequences of the actions of Presidents Buchanan and Johnson show what it is for a Chief Magistrate "to lay down a policy to be adhered to, right or wrong."

President Lincoln was wise enough to avoid this error. He had grasped the idea of modern statesmanship, so well expressed in the powerful language of Burke. He did not pretend to have a fixed and invariable "policy." He was wise enough to know that a statesman must regulate his conduct according to circumstances; that he must stand face to face with events; that he must study the changes of popular thought and mould his action to suit the requirements of the times. This was the way he dealt with slavery and proceeded step by step in the prosecution of the war. On these principles he steadily resisted everything which looked like the adoption of a fixed policy of reconstruction. He avoided all committals on points which could be affected by further developments. In his last speech, only three days before his death, he pointed out the danger of adopting an unalterable policy in a work so new and so anomalous. It was his view that these questions ought to be settled by the general voice of the country, and that they could not be settled in accordance with any man's theories. General Grant's views of politics are similar. His is fully in the spirit of modern politics and wise statesmanship.

Of the principles of Burke which we have quoted above, and which Grant's letter so fully accords with, Buckle says: "It is these views which make the appearance of Burke a memorable epoch in our political history. * * * It was his rare merit that, notwithstanding every inducement to rely upon his own generalizations, he resisted the temptations, though rich in all the varieties of political knowledge, he made his opinions subservient to the march of events; that he recognized as the object of government not the preservation of particular institutions, nor the propagation of particular tenets, but the happiness of the people at large; and above all that he assisted upon an obedience to the popular wishes which no statesman before him had paid, and which too many statesmen have forgotten."

It is astonishing, says the Sacramento [illegible], how elastic the Constitution is for Democratic purposes, and how scant a rag it is for the Radicals. With the latter it shrinks up into a mere rope around the neck to hang them with. For Democrats it expands into a luxurious and ample covering, under which they can consort around at their own sweet will. It is competent to shield treason, secession, rebel reconstruction and all that sort of thing; but it dissolves into tatters the moment you try to defend with it liberty, human rights, free soil or any other vile radicalism.

The will of Thaddeus Stevens leaves the bulk of his property to his nephew Capt. Thaddeus Stevens, on condition that he become and remain a teetotaller. If he fails in this condition the property is to go toward the establishment of an Asylum for the support of indigent and orphan children, without regard to race, color, religion or descent.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

DATES TO SEPTEMBER 4

Vermont Election—Large Republican Gains.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 2.—The election resulted in the success of the Republican State ticket by a large and increased majority over last year; the election of three Congressmen by heavy majorities; the choice of the State Senate unanimously Republican and House nearly so.

Returns from one third of the State indicate a Republican majority of [illegible],000 [illegible] judges place it as high as 30,000. [illegible] is the heaviest polled since 1861.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 2.—The House concurred in the Senate resolution for a joint committee to go to Washington and lay before the President the condition of affairs in Tennessee, and request him to send a United States military force to the State for the protection of the people.

The Times (Republican organ) favors the introduction of Federal troops in preference to the employment of the militia, and urges the Legislature to strike out the provision in the militia bill authorizing the declaration of martial law by the Governor.

The Press on the Vermont Election.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Times says the election in Vermont demonstrates the popularity of Grant and shows the power of Republican principles.

The Herald says the Republican victory in Vermont is owing partly to the unwise course of the Southern fire eating orators, proclaiming their devotion to the rebel flag. The Vermonters went to the ballot box as if expecting to fight the old battles over again.

The World says the Republican triumph in Vermont is like the Dutch taking Holland. The Democrats allowed the election to go by default, as not being considered indicative of the sentiment of the country.

The Tribune says the victory in Vermont surpasses its highest hopes. The Democrats made a desperate struggle. It was the issue of Sumter over again, and the result as decisive a victory.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 2.—This forenoon a portion of the east wall of the building on the North side of Columbia street, which was in process of demolition, fell, carrying away the floors of the third and second stories and burying a number of people in the ruins. A number of women and children were on the first floor gathering wood, but how many are buried is not known. The news created great excitement. Two dead bodies have been taken out.

About Gen. Rosecrans.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Gen. Rosecrans, in conversation at the Astor House yesterday, said he did not believe that the Southern leaders would issue an address, as has been reported.

In regard to the Mexican mission, he says his policy will be one of kindness. Fillibustering or annexation will not be favored.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 2.—The fair opened yesterday. The attendance was larger than ever before. Over 1,200 entries were made and the stock is still coming in.

SARATOGA, Sept. 1.—The Exchange Hotel with three barns and dwellings, were burned last evening. Loss, $40,000.

From Canada.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Grover, the witness who was expected to identify Whalen as the murderer of D'Arcy McGee, and who fled to the United States, has been captured on a charge trumped up against him at Rome and taken to Ogdensburg, where he was made drunk and smuggled over to Canada without going through the ceremony usually required by the extradition treaty. Sir John McDonald is said to have directed that he be captured at any cost and in any manner.

Excitement still exists in Montreal over the Fenian picnic to be held to-day.

Postoffice Frauds.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—For some time past an investigation has been making in regard to frauds in the Buffalo Postoffice. It appears that when quarterly blanks, twine, wrapping paper, etc., were ordered from contractors, only part of each requisition was filled, the contractors saving the balance would be sent in a few days. The clerks privy to the transaction would give credit for the whole. It is said these frauds have been going on since 1860. The amount thus stolen is believed to reach half a million dollars. Three clerks—one in the Treasury Department, one in the Second Auditor's office and one in the Government printing office were arrested yesterday.

Other Washington specials say warrants have been issued in New York for the arrest of Commissioner Rollins, Department Collector Harlan, Thos. E. Smith, late Inspector Haggarty and distillers, on charges of defrauding the Revenue Department. They will be examined before Commissioner Gaitman, at the Astor House.

Binckley, who has been absent without leave from the Department for some time, is said to be at the bottom of this proceeding, while he intended to furnish the President with a pretext for Rollins' suspension.

Republican journals believe the whole affair to be a conspiracy against Rollins.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE

LONDON, Sept. 1.—John Bright publishes a long and eloquent address to the voters of Birmingham, giving his views on nearly all the great questions at issue. He explains the defects of the late reform bill, reviews the question of suffrage and repeats his desire for such extension of franchise as will call into exercise the more enlightened views of the country. He denounces the principle of the three cornered constitutions as applied to Birmingham, believes the disfranchisement and dismemberment of the Irish Church would strengthen the cause of Christianity and the cause of the country. He closes by an announcement that he himself is the champion of the principles and offers himself a candidate for re-election.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Pierre Magne, Minister of Finance, made a speech at the banquet to his Honor at Pierre Gaux, in which he said peace would continue because Europe needs it, and France is strong to preserve it. It was no one's interest now to break it. This declaration was most enthusiastically received.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The following particulars of the events preceding the evacuation of Humaita by the Paraguayans are believed to be authentic: On the 16th of July the Marquis D. Caxias, commander of the allied forces, received information that the Paraguayans were leaving the fortress. He immediately ordered the advance of a column of about sixteen thousand men and they crossed the ditches and entered the enemy's lines and took possession of the redoubt. They were making preparations to occupy the rest of the works, when the Paraguayan troops opened fire, which had a terrible effect on the allied column, in its crowded and disordered condition. The Paraguayans then advanced on the Brazilians jumping into redoubts and attacking them with bayonet. Meantime they kept up a sharp artillery fire on the column which had commenced to fall back.

The attacking party (Allies) were driven from the redoubt and the whole column retired to its camp, having suffered severely in killed, wounded and prisoners. The lowest estimate of their loss in attack places it at 600 killed and wounded. Some divisions were almost cut to pieces. A large number of men were missing. A few hours later the Allies assaulted the Paraguayan [illegible] in Gracho. The attacking party was received with a heavy fire of artillery, which created a panic among them, when they commenced to retreat in disorder. The Paraguayans then left their defenses and pursued the retreating troops. The latter again suffered heavily, especially on the retreat, their killed and wounded amounting to 600. On the 15th of July it was discovered that Humaita had actually been evacuated. All heavy guns were left dismounted and spiked, and the garrison returned in good order, without interruption, to a new position in the fortifications there which Lopez had been building for nearly a year. They are believed to be impregnable. Communications with the interior are secure and the Paraguay river has been so obstructed as to be inaccessible to the allied naval force.

Dispatches received from Rio Janeiro to August 8th, state that the U. S. steamer Wasp had proceeded up the river to Ascension to take on board Minister Washburne and suit.

The Ariel, the first ship of the fleet from China had just arrived in the Thames. She sailed from Foo Chow May 29th, in company with the tea ship Taeping and Sir Lancelot.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The Union Republican Mass Meeting at Platt's Hall last night was attended by over 3,000 and crowded to its utmost capacity. A large number of ladies were present. [illegible] Hon. Henry [illegible] spoke two hours and a quarter. His speech was pronounced to be the most comprehensive and logical review of the political situation as well as the most eloquent oration delivered to the campaign. Mr. Edgerton will soon leave for the country on a political tour.

The Pacific Mail steamship [illegible] arrived to-day noon. The North American steamer [illegible] arrived early this morning.

Last night about half of the section of the sea wall foundation, between Pacific and Jackson streets sank down to the depth of from eight to ten feet, owing to the draving of great quantities of mud from the front of the embankment, which [illegible] the latter [illegible] deposit [illegible]

[illegible] Knox was serenaded by the band of the second battalion Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Hollenger, who killed her infant and then attempted to kill herself, died this morning.

FROM THE NORTH

VICTORIA, Sept. 1.—The woods in the neighborhood of the city, in nearly every direction, are on fire. On the Saanich road bridges and fences have been destroyed and the fire is still making rapid progress.

The Opening Gun

We refer to the telegraphic dispatches for an account of the great Republican gains in Vermont. The increased majority obtained by the Republicans in that State indicates that Grant will sweep the whole country as Lincoln did in 1864. Two or three days ago the telegraph advised us that the Democrats were making great efforts to reduce the Republican majority in Vermont. They desired this for effect in other States. The result is now known. To show the significance of this victory we append a statement of the vote of Vermont for Governor with the Republican majorities for five years past:

	Rep.	Dem.	Rep. maj.
1863	29,615	11,962	17,651
1864	31,380	12,288	18,977
1865	27,586	8,857	18,729
1866	34,117	11,292	22,825
1867	31,691	11,510	20,184

Average Republican majority for five years 19,[illegible]

The present majority as reported by telegraph is eight to ten thousand larger than this average. This result is very significant. The next State to hold an election is Maine. Her election will take place on the 14th of the present month, when she will re-echo the voice of the Green Mountain State.

THE CHRONICLES.

And it came to pass in the third year of the reign of George the Third, who was ruler over the land of Webfoot, that the news went throughout all the land that KOHN & FISHEL, at No. 91 Front street, Portland, were selling Dry Goods and Clothing at fabulously low prices, and all the people heard it and they straightway came unto that place; and when they had demanded the price at KOHN & FISHEL'S store, they marvelled and said, "The half has not been told us, for here we can buy all kinds of Clothing and Dry Goods for ourselves, our wives and our little ones much cheaper than at any other place in all the land of Webfoot." And from that day even until now the people have come in great numbers to buy their goods of KOHN & FISHEL.

CLACKAMAS PAPER M[illegible] [illegible] IS MADE.—The new paper [illegible] having [illegible] to regular [illegible] we paid them a visit yesterday, in company with [illegible] of Portland [illegible] Oregon City. [illegible] location of the [illegible] the Clackamas bridge on the Oregon City and [illegible] road, and about one mile and a half from Oregon City on the south bank of the Clackamas river. The [illegible] pany have [illegible] twelve acres of ground, a large warehouse for the storing of paper material—rags, straw, etc., the mills proper consisting of a large [illegible] building, with a long wing, sheds, workshops, etc. At present the warehouse contains only several tons of cotton and linen material. The mills contain already a large amount of machinery and appliances for paper-making, [illegible] number of workmen are employed in constructing and fitting up other pieces. The [illegible] are amply large, and the construction of the building throughout is of the strongest and firmest character, the machinery all in motion scarcely exciting a tremor of the staunch timbers. The machinery is entirely new and of the latest and most approved pattern. It is driven in separate divisions by four water wheels, for the turning of which there is abundance of water at the lowest stage in summer.

We may not be able to describe the process of making paper so as to be distinctly understood without the means of illustration, but we will attempt briefly to state the several processes through which the rags pass from the warehouse to the room in which the finished paper is baled for market. The rags are taken first into the sorting room and piled in great heaps on one side of a sorting box. From these piles a certain class of rags—according as they are wanted for news, book or cap paper—is selected and thrown into the sorting box. They are there examined piece by piece by the [illegible] usually women and children—and all buttons, pins, dirt and other hard substances carefully separated from them. If any material not wanted at all or below the grade [illegible] is found, it is thrown out. The properly sorted rags are then taken out and run through a cutting machine which cuts them into irregular shreds about an inch in breadth. From this cutting machine they pass upon an elevating band into a revolving screen, much like a flour bolter, which sifts all the dirt loosened by the cutting machine. From the opposite end of the screen they fall upon another elevator which carries them into a large bin in the bleaching room. Here they are placed in large vats and subjected to boiling in lime water for about twelve hours. There are three of these vats. The boiling is accomplished by injecting steam at the bottom of the vats. The object of the boiling is to loosen the [illegible] colors. When taken from the vats they pass into another room where they are put into the rag engines for the purpose of being washed, bleached and ground into pulp. The engine vats are of long oval shape, and [illegible] half a [illegible] [illegible]. On one side of the vats is placed a revolving shaft thickly set with knives which mesh with a stationary set of knives, between which the rags pass, and repass hundreds of times, going round and round like [illegible] wheel in a tub. They float in water which is supplied by a pipe running constantly, and exhausted by a current of water wheel buckets enclosed in fine wire cloth to prevent waste of pulp or fibre. The water in these vats is saturated with chloride of lime or other chemicals for the purpose of washing out the dirt and colors. In about fifteen hours, of constant grinding the rags become bleached perfectly white, and reduced to pulp. As soon as this process is completed the pulp is drawn off through the pipes into large stuff chests or vats [illegible] directly under the paper making machinery. Here it is kept most of the time in motion by an upright shaft supplied with horizontal arms, for the purpose of [illegible] a uniform consistency of the pulp. When wanted it is forced up by a pump into a box in which is a contrivance for regulating the supply which may be [illegible] for making thick or thin paper, thence it passes into a settling box where it passes over riffles similar to [illegible] sluice box for saving gold, for the purpose of settling any sand which may have remained in it till now. [illegible] falls into the screen box, the bottom of which is [illegible] sheet cut full of long narrow meshes, this is [illegible] [illegible] all the time by means of cams or a revolving [illegible] striking against cogs attached to the screen box. From this box, the pulp which now looks more like milky [illegible] anything else passes through two large pipes [illegible] vat in which revolves, half immersed in the [illegible] cylinder whose rim has fine wire cloth. This is the [illegible] of the paper-making machine. It is half [illegible] in the pulp. When the machine is standing [illegible] water of the vat would be the same hight outside [illegible] the cylinder; but when it is in motion, the [illegible] the cylinder is partially exhausted by a pump [illegible] the surface of the water inside is lower than [illegible] vat outside the cylinder. The water of the [illegible] freely through the wire cloth of the cylinder [illegible] its level, while the fibre cannot pass through, [illegible] like a slight sediment on the face of the [illegible] and is carried up till it comes in contact with a [illegible] [illegible] over the cylinder. The [illegible] takes the fibre from the wire cloth and carries it [illegible], along its travels toward paper [illegible] between two heavy iron rollers with [illegible] which squeeze out the water and [illegible] so that they adhere. They [illegible] hold of the blanket and adhere to one of [illegible] in the form of paper, wet and not [illegible] very strong. The tenacity of the fibres is, how[illegible] such that this long-drawn out cotton sheet [illegible] its own weight in reeling off the roller on [illegible] [illegible] on, and to the [illegible] or drying [illegible] on the drying felt around [illegible] tight and at [illegible] heated cy[illegible], by which [illegible] dried and made tough. From these it [illegible] and goes eventually between a set of [illegible] gives it and equal[illegible] and smooth [illegible] through a machine which [illegible] it into desired lengths, from which it falls upon a table in sweeping sheets. From the [illegible] this place the paper has passed [illegible] of rollers, cylinders and [illegible] fifty or seventy feet in a pair line, and [illegible] counting its evolutions. The sheet [illegible] "as if by miracle from what ap[illegible] dirty water, is [illegible], so long as the [illegible] the supply of pulp be furnished to [illegible]. [illegible] engaged upon paper the size of [illegible] and while we were present several reams [illegible]. The same machinery will make paper [illegible] wider, or of any size narrower. The cut [illegible] may be regulated to cut any sized sheet [illegible] to four.

[illegible] LIGHTNING.—During the brief thunder shower [illegible] evening, one of the trees standing [illegible] ground at Vancouver was struck by [illegible] badly shattered. A soldier and a China[illegible] [illegible] under it, were injured. At [illegible] City, a curious circumstance occurred in the store [illegible]. The two gentlemen were standing [illegible] direct line between the front and [illegible] vivid flash seemed to pass between [illegible] Mr. Pratt [illegible] had a bunch of lucifer matches [illegible] pocket scissors in his right vest pocket. As [illegible] occurred the matches were instantaneously [illegible] the blaze from them at once shot upward [illegible] escaped unhurt, though both were [illegible] on the side next to the flash. Both [illegible] the following night with a nervous head[illegible]. Mr. Chapman describes the sen[illegible] followed the flash and which still continues [illegible] produced by swinging for a long time [illegible] room seemed to be touched.

[illegible]—We learn from Astoria that the [illegible] brig Marcy and steam sloop Katy, belonging to the Coast Survey, are engaged at the bar of the [illegible] and its vicinity. The survey of the channel [illegible] in a few days. About 140 men, under [illegible] of the U. S. Civil Engineers, are at [illegible] Stevens. The steamer Okanagan ran up[illegible] near the mouth of the Cowlitz river and [illegible] a hole into her hull as rendered it neces[illegible] beach her. She now lies near the mouth of the [illegible], but in such position that it is thought she [illegible] up, with little damage. The Melancthon, [illegible], is loading at Oak Point, and will sail [illegible] inst. The bark Falkenburg is detained [illegible] the bar by dense smoke and fog, rendering the [illegible] dangerous. Landmarks cannot be seen. Heavy [illegible] raging in the woods of the Coast range, on both [illegible] the Columbia.

[illegible] RIVERSIDE TRACK.—A race took place at the [illegible] track, yesterday afternoon for a sweepstakes, [illegible] by Acker's Pauline, "Well's "Savage" [illegible] "Waterloo." Race, mile heats, best two [illegible] three.

ARRIVAL OF THE WRIGHT.—The steamship George S. Wright, Langdon commander, arrived last evening from Victoria. She left Victoria on Monday, Aug 31st, at 4 o'clock A. M., arrived at the Columbia bar Tuesday at 3 A. M.; lay off in fog and smoke till Wednesday, Sept. 2d, [illegible] remained till Thursday morning [illegible] off the bar at 2 A. M. Tuesday morning, the [illegible] Oriflamme came in sight, fired a few signal [illegible] and then stood off, though she had on board pilot [illegible]. The Wright came in without any pilot. She brought the Paris Exposition Circus from Victoria.

[illegible] ALERT.—While at Oregon City, yesterday, we noticed that the steamer Alert is out on the beach and is undergoing a very thorough course of repairs. She has already been straightened up and and is to have new center posts and new hog chains and is to be generally refitted and refur[illegible]. When she again appears she will be in every way as good as new, if not better.

LOOK OUT FOR COUNTERFEITS.—We are informed that quite a number of counterfeit ten-dollar bills on the [illegible] National Bank of New York are in circulation here and a number of them have recently been offered at the Revenue Collector's office. They may be detected by a peculiar faded or dim imprint. It would be well to keep a sharp lookout for them.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—We are indebted to the officers of the [illegible] for favors.

BENEFIT TO PROTECTION FIRE COMPANY.—In consequence of the non arrival of the Circus Troupe, the [illegible] Protection Engine Company, which was advertised to take place [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

MILITARY.—We understand that the Washington [illegible] will have rather an out-door [illegible]. They intend to [illegible] [illegible] ments for the target [illegible] month.

TO SAIL.—The steamer [illegible] Victoria on Sunday morning [illegible] have all freight on [illegible] day evening.

A Seymour Rebellion in Louisiana

[illegible] CONWAY.

T. [illegible] Conway, Superintendent of Public [illegible] cation in Louisiana, writes from New Orleans to the Hartford (Conn.) [illegible] under date of August [illegible]:

Throughout the [illegible] northern [illegible] portion of this State there exists a [illegible] of rebellion against the State and Federal Government. [illegible] order of the day. The Ku Klux [illegible] have taken possession of the country, and [illegible] whites and blacks are running for their lives. [illegible] another of the [illegible] we receive each day bearing the tidings of the assassination of leading Union men. [illegible] the Hon. John Lynch, Senator for the parish of Carroll, and hears the [illegible] of the murder recently of two loyal preachers, and the flight of a large number of men, women and children from their homes for places of security elsewhere. In the parishes of Tensas, Morehouse, Sabine, [illegible], Caddo, [illegible] Baton Rouge, St. Martin, Franklin and Carroll, the people [illegible] worse by far than were before during the war. Northern white men are driven away from their homes in many instances, while in others they are [illegible] upon, cut and maimed, and all with too few only with life enough left to enable them to get away. We are in a bad situation surely, for it would seem as if the devil himself had taken possession of the old rebels, causing them to do things of which he himself would be ashamed.

It is no longer a doubtful matter that the whole thing is planned in New Orleans in the headquarters of the Ku Klux and the [illegible] of Seven. This Ku Klux in this State, is the mainspring of the Democratic party. It is the engine by which that party expects to succeed, if such a thing is possible.

Since the nomination of Seymour and the publication of [illegible] letter [illegible] [illegible] who [illegible] the Klan [illegible] [illegible] ten times worse than [illegible] which [illegible] them [illegible] during the war. They now believe to succeed in beating Grant, means the success of the South against the North, the triumph of [illegible] a white man's government, [illegible] with the nigger away with Northern men, etc.

We cannot live here—no Union man can—if Seymour should be elected, and of course no Northern man would come here afterwards for even Copperheads love a peaceful country, and as a matter of course, they could not think of coming down this way any more than Republicans could.

That Seymour is every whit as good a man as Jeff Davis, is generally believed by the rebels down here, and that he would, if elected, aid in crushing the "carpet baggers and niggers," is an idea that warms every Southern heart.

The men who participated in the massacre of the 30th of July, 1866, are out every night [illegible] ing for Seymour. They seem to [illegible] in defense of their friends, the New York rioters in 1863.

Every rebel, every Thug, every assassin, every Democrat in this State goes for Seymour. Gen. Beauregard and Gen. Harry Hays are strong Seymour men. Those whom Butler sent to Fort Jackson in 1862, and who are now free, are doing all in their power for the election [illegible] ernor of New York.

The Ku Klux Klan who commit [illegible] the [illegible] hands of murders heard of in [illegible] are Seymour men. Each Ku Klux Klan organization is now a Seymour organization, and is doing all in its power for his election.

The men here whose business it was to run the blockade during the war and [illegible] privateers to destroy Northern ships are all [illegible] Seymour and Blair.

General Briggs, now Superintendent of the Water Works of this city, is an ardent [illegible] of Seymour. The men who believed in starving Union prisoners to death during the war, and whose cry was "death to all who are for the Union," are now the loudest champions of the New York friend Seymour. The men who fastened the necks of Union men to the lamp posts of this city in 1861, are now in favor of [illegible] Seymour to the Presidency.

But, on the other hand, the gallant men who fought their way here from the North and West, and who have concluded to remain, and [illegible] their political principles in the market places of the Democracy, have determined [illegible] the great leader to whom more than to any other living man we are indebted for [illegible] republic.

The newspapers, excepting the few [illegible] publican [illegible] [illegible] structed government of [illegible] they are full of fight as if [illegible] than they have already. They tell the [illegible] and the members of the Legislature, that the people will not submit; that as proud and chivalric citizens they will rise up and crush the [illegible] who are in power. Indeed, I may say that if you were here at present, and could compare the present temper of the rebel mind with that which moved it in 1861, you would see but little difference. The idea that none are fit to govern this country except the old slave [illegible] is rev[illegible] very rapidly. We must [illegible] other, viz., that all citizens, when found capable and elected by the majority, are [illegible] to [illegible] ed. The Ku Klux are murdering [illegible] many Union men in the country, and have inaugurated [illegible] reign of terror that the Legislature may [illegible] pelled, notwithstanding the Republican majority of 40,000 in the State, to adopt a law allowing the electoral vote of the State to be cast by the General Assembly.

That such a bill will pass ere the Legislature adjourns I have not the least doubt. Let the Union men of the North—the men who saved the Union against the Northern and Southern Democracy—but stand up to Grant and Colfax, as I firmly believe they will, and the South will [illegible] for Union men to live in, but elect Seymour and worse things than the rebellion will surely transpire.

The following paragraph, which we find in the New Orleans Republican of the 8th inst., is additional evidence of the deplorable state of affairs described by Mr. Conway:

A letter has been received from Madison parish dated August 4th, which gives further information of the killing of colored men and the burning of their houses. Every man from the [illegible] to be on the watch all night to protect [illegible] from the guerrillas and [illegible] [illegible] publican party are [illegible] [illegible] All [illegible] ored men in the remote parts of the parish are coming to De Soto.

Threats are being made that every man who votes for Grant will be killed by guerrillas, and there are indications that an organization is being formed to exterminate the Republicans.

Are You Bilious? Multitudes of [illegible] es will answer this question in the affirmative, for, next to disorders of the stomach [illegible] are perhaps the most [illegible] of all [illegible] diseases. Its usual symptoms [illegible] whites of the eyes, especially near the [illegible] uneasy or slightly painful sensation [illegible] pain between the shoulder blades, sick headache, [illegible] tal dullness, lack of appetite and irregularity of the bowels. Whoever recognizes this diagnosis applying to his own condition, may be quite certain that more bile exists in his blood and less passes through his bowels than is expedient for his health, and that his liver requires toning and regulating. One of the special uses of

G. VENARD.
CHARTRES COFFEE!
Manufactory Established in June, 1851.
STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST
HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

Fired a Little too Soon

The following is a Democratic estimate of Frank Blair before his nomination. It is from [illegible] June

Has the Democratic party fallen so low as to be used by such [illegible] Is it so craven as to [illegible] any one of the candidates already named [illegible] the new man must be taken up. Think [illegible] he will [illegible] these fellows need! Where's Train? Send for Train. [illegible] The Democratic party cannot be united on any candidate already named [illegible] Where did you learn all that, Montgomery? By going to Silver Spring and [illegible] the old man or by sending out to [illegible] and a king by their Frank! Then the Blair family stands out against the nomination of any candidate already named. Of course the Democratic party cannot be united on any of these candidates. The Blair family goes back on these candidates. So the party cannot unite on any of them. No party can be united without the Blairs. In fact it is no party without the Blairs. Whew! What a king family [illegible] expression of the late lamented master. What a king [illegible] has got! But all this [illegible] unite the party by nominating General Frank. Then the party would be united of course, for the Blair family would be satisfied. When they are satisfied the party is united. How simple. Why hasn't this been thought of before? Now gentlemen enough of this. The Democratic party is united—united as never before upon principles and a man. You know this full well, and all your efforts will avail nothing to defeat the people's will. In this great crisis you are of no account; you have no weight; you must stand aside, and give place to the millions who are going to do the voting and elect the ticket, and will have it to suit them, or know the reason why."

The Mississippi River to be Diverted from the Present Channel.—The people of Mobile are just now excited over a most stupendous project, which is nothing less than to dig a new bed for the Mississippi through Bayou Manchac, so as to render Mobile instead of New Orleans the main port at the outlet of the Father of Waters. It is agreed on behalf of the scheme that it will virtually do away with the levee system and also relieve the pressure of the great river that the [illegible] of a crevasse need no longer exist. The New Orleans papers are violently opposed to the enterprise. The proposed river route, they say, is exclusively within the boundaries of Louisiana, and the people of that State will never consent that any such dangerous experiments shall be tried with her territory or her streams. Besides, it is stated that it could only be accomplished by the sacrifice of all the lowlands in Louisiana below Baton Rouge, including a larger body of valuable land than can be found in the whole State of Alabama. St Louis is expected to furnish most of the capital to carry out the plan. Nothing daunted by the vigorous protest of their New Orleans neighbors, the Mobilians are actively moving in the matter, and seem to be thoroughly in earnest.—N O Picayune

Carpet Bag Members.—The Stockton Gazette says: "A carpet bagger recently elected United States Senator from Florida is a low vagrant vagabond, who went from the vicinity of Watertown, Jefferson county, New York. To call him a common loafer is too mild a term to express his character." What about the carpet bag members from the North and South, sent to Washington from this coast? Where now are the Democratic Congressmen (real carpet-baggers) who came to this State at an early day to return on Congress jobs[?] Where is Phil Herbert, the murderer of the Irish waiter? Where is James W. Denver, who killed the lamented Gilbert? Where is Joe McKibben, who went home a few years ago and actually [illegible] his sister's husband? Where is Charles L. Scott, who when last heard from, was carpet-bagging in Nevada? Where is ex-Governor Weller, who made such a heavy [illegible] the [illegible] fund of Butler county? And [illegible] at least, where is Lime Point [illegible] party is a nice party to talk to [illegible] about carpet-baggers.—Ma[illegible]

Seymour may count among the "soldiers" who "uphold" him, those who, pending the draft, moved their bodies to Canada and remained there until Wilkes Booth murdered Lincoln. During the war there was an "army of observation" in Canada, which from time to time made raids over the lakes, burning peaceful hamlets, robbing the banks and murdering the inhabitants in their beds. Every man in the army of Confederate spies, [illegible], cowardly runaways from the draft and deserters from the [illegible] from the St. Albans assassins to the men who sought to send infected clothing into the United States, upholds Seymour and Blair, and denounces Grant as "the inhuman butcher" who would not be whipped by Lee, and who compelled the latter to lay down his arms—a prisoner of war.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Portland, Ogn, July 28 1868

As there are a great many people sick and dying of a disease called Cholera Morbus, I would call attention to the Chinese Doctor Jim. Having eaten green fruit I was taken very bad with the above disease and lay in terrible pains for four hours, when Dr Jim was called, and 20 minutes after he gave me the first dose of medicine I was easy and asleep. I believe that there is no other doctor on the Pacific coast that could have relieved me as quick as Dr Jim did.

SOOTHING AND BRACING.—There is no preparation [illegible] which has such a soothing effect in cases of nervous excitement as

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Although the fame of this renowned invigorant rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and intestinal disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which as a sex they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant reaction. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

Farming Lands and Town Lots.

THE OREGON CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY

OFFERS FOR SALE A GREAT VARIETY OF LANDS in MULTNOMAH, WASHINGTON and YAMHILL Counties, and along the line of their Railroad now being constructed.

VALUABLE Timber Lands in lots to suit purchasers.

LOTS in the City of Portland, Hillsboro, Forest Grove, McMinnville and at points selected for Stations on said Railroad.

PERSONS OF LIMITED MEANS desiring to open farms or secure Homesteads along the line of this Railroad, and persons desirous of making investments in real estate certain to increase in value, are invited to examine the lands here offered for sale.

Opportunities will be afforded to those who desire it to pay for lands, or a portion of the value thereof, in labor upon the Company's road, and thus place it within the reach of every laborer to secure a home. Several contracts of this character have already been made, and persons without lands or a home are urged to examine this opportunity.

A liberal credit extended to all purchasers if desired.

Titles indisputable, with warranty deeds in all cases.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern.—One A. Myers is publishing and circulating a statement that my wheel is an infringement on the Leffel wheel, and he will prosecute said infringement to the utmost extent of the law. His statements are of no value. His game is Bluff, which, if he would only take the case to Court, would soon be played out. Don't believe him.

I would be glad to get a case into the United States Court and get a decision. That would forever stop the mouth of Myers and his misrepresentations. The legal opinions from more reputable lawyers than Dodge & Munn [illegible] have pronounced my patent no infringement on the American Turbine. H. W. SHIPLEY

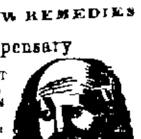
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES.

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary



616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and ulcerated [illegible] successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of promising young males and females [illegible] exist [illegible] absorbed [illegible] diseases [illegible] or the enjoyment of life. [illegible] Let parents, guardians, friends [illegible] suffering with any of these horrible [illegible] they are cured [illegible] made private [illegible] curing all diseases [illegible] European [illegible] charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and attire of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, and not delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn certificates, [illegible] some of the self-styled doctors [illegible] are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are pretenders, and being too lazy to work at their trades, some are tin smiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patent letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.

Consultation FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
